

“As a professional development worker I would like to expose myself to international learning, update and refresh my practical experience with new theoretical inputs and develop international contacts for the growth of my organization. This is the purpose of my study at the Coady.”

Johnson Augustin Kennedy

Director

UDAVI Society, India

For the past 13 years I have worked as director. I have implemented existing projects, planned and executed projects with the staff team, undertook periodical training for staff and peoples organizations, monitored, supervised and evaluated projects, maintained reports and documents, strengthened the organization network and linkages at micro and macro level, evolved policies for the organization and planned for new projects.

‘Udavi’ society is a registered voluntary organization established in 1993. The main goal of the organization is to ensure and protect the basic rights of the most marginalized, vulnerable and deprived community people in rural, tribal and urban areas, with special focus to women, children, youth and the aged.

The community based people centered approach is being adapted by the organization to address child labor, street children, persons with disabilities, victims of tsunami, internally displaced communities, people affected by HIV & AIDS, RCH and domestic violence.
