

“Coady not only provides a deeper knowledge of what development is, but it also equips the students with effective scientific methods of identifying social problems and evaluating the results. These skills, I think are both very helpful and necessary in the carrying out of development programs, and planning and monitoring such programs.”

Coordinator

Meerut Seva Samaj, India

As Coordinator, my main work in the organization is planning and execution of the activities through animators of the project “Women Empowerment linked with Non-Conventional Energy Promotion Program.” This involves maintaining the weekly plan of the animators, holding meetings with the animators and villagers, identifying social issues and addressing them in collaboration with Government agencies and other stakeholders.

The efforts of my organization are primarily aimed at bringing equality and dignity in the life of the people. The major activities include promotion and formation of self help groups, community based organizations, strengthening of panchayat raj institution, empowerment of women, creating awareness among the women on their roles in the family as well as in the society, encouraging women to participate in panchayati raj activities, socio-economic empowerment of the downtrodden, health awareness for disease-free life and bridging the sex ratio gap which is alarming in the western part of U. P. State.
