

“I came to the Coady Institute to develop leadership skills and to learn alternative ways to motivate, educate and inspire my people in my First Nations community.”

Violet Soosay

Coordinator

Proposed Samson Cree Nation Youth Centre, Canada

Currently, the focus of my work is planning the development of a youth centre. I do the policy development and governance framework, public relations, meeting with government officials and researching youth programming initiatives.

The Samson Cree Nation Youth Centre will work to build capacity for future betterment of the community through the dedication and determination of effective leaders. As a First Nations community, we must work collectively to address the social issues and well-being of our First Nations members.
