

“I came to the Coady Institute to become a professional leader. Coady is the place where leaders are made. I will go back to my organization with developed and sharpened leadership qualities, skills and techniques.”

Sikander Tirkey

Vice Director

Chotanagpur Catholic Mission Cooperative Credit Society, Ranchi, India

The focus of my work with my organization is the holistic development of the tribal peoples of Chotanagpur, Ranchi, Jharkhand, India.

I supervise, monitor and evaluate works of 63 sub-centers of my organization. I also organize meetings, camps, and training programs on cooperatives, savings, loans, agriculture, trade, education, economic, and social issues that can play major roles in their holistic development. They have shown great trust and faith in the organization. Many new members are joining the cooperative every year.

The main goals of my organization are to impart moral and economic training to the members, promote and encourage saving habits among them, provide loan facilities with a low rate of interest and make members economically self sufficient.

This organization has made some impact in my community as far as small savings and small loan facilities are concerned. This organization gives loans to its members for agricultural development, trade, education, marriage, house repairs etc. The volume of money and the loans taken by the members are increasing every year. This is a sign of the prosperity of the organization and the members themselves.
