

I came to Coady for the unique opportunity to learn and be able to develop my abilities to engage with the decision-makers in other sectors with strategic ease and influence.

Patrick Newton Bondo

Executive Director

Outreach Social Care Project, Republic Of South Africa

In my current position, I have been given the opportunity and responsibility for more involvement in process development and improvement, as well as interaction with a wider global community. What inspires me in my life is the opportunity to make a difference to the people around me. It's why I do the work that I do, and it inspires me in my personal life as well. My goal is to continue to enhance my skills and abilities so that I can further my development as an individual and as a leader.

The Outreach Social Care Project (OSCAR) is a small grassroots, non-profit organization that serves disadvantaged and underprivileged communities in and around the City of Pietermaritzburg in the KwaZulu Natal Province of South Africa. Since 2007, OSCAR has focused its energy on promoting the following three key areas for children, youth and women: health; education and awareness; and sustainable livelihoods and food security. The organization provides much-needed services regarding HIV/AIDS; food parcels; and life skills.
