

I came to Coady Institute to enhance my professional knowledge and skills so I can contribute more to our community development.

Prakash Chhetri

Program Coordinator

Innovative Forum for Community Development (IFCD), Nepal

I am responsible for managing meetings, workshops, and training programs with consulting government agencies. I also promote networking among government agencies and other stakeholders. My duties also include tracking progress of staff, monitoring and evaluating activities and assessing feedback.

IFCD is a community-based organization. At the beginning IFCD has been working in the non-formal education sector, offering literacy programs for children and adults. IFCD supports other organizations whose goals are to promote formal and non-formal education in Nepal, especially among the most disadvantaged clusters of population.
