

I came to Coady to further sharpen my goals, vision, knowledge and skills in this empowering ministry with the poor and the marginalized. I also personally wish to re-focus my commitment so I can go back recharged to help others have more hope.

I am inspired and motivated by Jesus who was a compassionate lover of the poor and marginalized. I work with scheduled caste so they are aware of their rights and can obtain certain benefits. I fight against child marriage and provide skills training for girls who dropped out of school. The goal is to find them better placements in their communities.

To build a just and humane society through compassionate love, and to empower the poor and marginalized. Our intervention in the lives of women has made a tremendous change. Women are empowered socially, economically and politically. Women now have micro credit available and can generate income. They are also making decisions and standing up for their human rights, which has improved their status within their families and society, and helps them live with more dignity and respect.
