

I came to Coady to enhance the capacity of the organization, staff potential and my personal skills. It will help me to make a positive difference and enable me to create a better place where all will live in peace.

Ashalata D'Souza SRA

Coordinator for rural development project

Jeevan Vikas Sanstha, India

We have formed various groups for farmers, children and widows, along with self-help groups. Through the capacity building program and community mobilization, people are motivated to help themselves and are empowered to fight for their rights. A good number of women are motivated to live value-based lives and to earn their livelihood through various income generation programs. We animate communities for improved access to education, health, employment and social development.

Jeevan Vikas Sanstha has undertaken the social development program, capacity building, sustainable development and empowerment of the women and children through a community-based approach. Our focus is to transform society through community mobilization and promotion of the village development committee for linking and accessing government schemes and livelihood opportunities in the villages. Our mandate is to build a transformed society and to be an agent of the change and channel of peace.
