

A stronger voice of women is critical for Ghana's development agenda. Skills gained at Coady will be applied in training women leaders to play key roles in community-driven development processes.

Patricia Blankson Akakpo

Program manager

Network for Women's Rights in Ghana (NETRIGHT), Ghana

As program manager, I am responsible for facilitating the efficient management of our work program. My responsibilities include: policy analysis; development and management of projects; training; networking, advocacy and supervision.

NETRIGHT is a coalition of CSOs and individuals who have a clear interest in working together to bring a gender perspective to national processes as well as policy content and implementation. The organisation was started in November 1999 by a group of women's rights and gender-oriented NGOs, women's rights activists and advocates who needed a platform to respond collectively to issues of national importance. NETRIGHT focuses on 3 core areas: economic justice; natural resources (oil, gas and mining) and movement building.
