

“I am here to enhance my leadership and managerial skills, gain knowledge and different tools in education for community development. This exposure will strengthen my networking and collaboration between my university and Coady Institute.”

Ani Auli Ilmi

Lecturer

Islamic State University of Alauddin, Makassar, Indonesia

My main responsibility is teaching as a lecturer, conducting research and doing community outreach activities. The adult education and leadership skills that I've gained at Coady will enable me to empower my community and I will integrate with an Islamic approach to achieve my organization's mission in these areas: education, research, community service and achieving an independent university character. I am inspired to mentor and empower young leaders and community members through my work while creating an impact for future generations.
