

PHOTO: Stefanie Recollet

To be in the presence of amazing Women who are working to bring positive impacts to the world we live in. I am taking away so much Medicine to keep going on my journey stronger more determined and honored to be a Woman Leader in the world today.

Michelle Hanson-Cunningham

First Nations

Alberta

I strive to be a supportive, positive, and kind person. I am the proud mother of four wonderful children who have taught me to be the best version of myself - they make me smile. My day job consists of 21 years in Social Work. I love helping families and children embrace change for the better. Working with Aboriginal families has been a passion of mine; I believe we all need to take care of our communities give to each other and support one another.

For the past seven years I have been facilitating Women's Moon lodge circles as a place to learn, grow and heal those stories that no longer serve our journey. Healing takes time and focus; I love how open and honest the circle can bring women. The medicine wheel is a guide to help us in our daily life - we just have to explore. It brings me joy to see women embrace their feminine strength honoring who they are and what they bring to this life.

COADY

INTERNATIONAL INSTITUTE
ST. FRANCIS XAVIER UNIVERSITY

Indigenous Women in Community Leadership