

PHOTO: Stephanie Recollet

I saw an incredible opportunity to join a network of Indigenous women from across Canada where we can continually teach and learn from each other based on our knowledge, experiences, and expertise in an environment that encourages and enhances this.

Nesta Opal Chrystal Hager

First Nation

Yukon

Inye Dohuch'i (How are you?)

Nesta Hager Uuzhi (My name is Nesta Hager. Pelly Crossing, Yukon Territory ts'i ech'i (I am from Pelly Crossing, Yukon Territory). I am a member of the Northern Tutchone Nation and I belong to the Tske (Crow) Clan. On April 5, 2017 I was elected into leadership as a Crow Council Representative for the Selkirk First Nation.

I am committed to working with our youth, elders, community members, administration, and service workers in working together to reclaim our Northern Tutchone identity in hopes to build self-reliance, foster healing, build community, and restore pride in our daily lives.

COADY

INTERNATIONAL INSTITUTE
ST. FRANCIS XAVIER UNIVERSITY

Indigenous Women in Community Leadership