

I expect to learn more about myself and improve my leadership and management skills, learn various methodologies and approaches towards women's empowerment, share views, approaches and experience with international peers, and update my knowledge on how to achieve societal transformation.

Ha Thuy Do

Private Sector Engagement Program Manager

Oxfam in Vietnam

My mission is to ensure that the private sector engagement approach is mainstreamed in Oxfam's programs in which the private sector is influenced to work within the law and international conventions. I develop programs and design and manage projects to empower smallholder producers, especially ethnic minorities and women to safeguard their livelihoods and secure access to and control over natural resources.

Oxfam seeks to encourage lasting and sustained societal change in power relations, prioritizes gender and respect for diversity, and supports empowerment and strengthening voices. It promotes collective action to address issues of those living in poverty and confronting inequalities and injustices; it contributes to the strengthening of representative and progressive civil society voices in Vietnam and promotes dialogue.
