

I came to Coady to be exposed to innovative leadership skills, which I will use to inspire young women to take charge of their lives and positively contribute to the development agenda in Cameroon.

Clotilda Andienza

Founder and coordinator

Center for Advocacy in Gender Equality and Action for Development (CAGEAD), Cameroon

I am in charge of overall strategic and operational responsibilities of the organization. I ensure the effective and timely implementation of projects, manage donor engagement and report to the management board.

CAGEAD is a registered non-governmental, non-political and non-religious organization based in the northwest region of Cameroon. We are dedicated to upholding the rights of women and youth through education, awareness building and advocacy. CAGEAD seeks to be a leading organization for promoting human equality and development by building and promoting a culture of accountability in behaviour in communities.
