Founder

iGREEN - Environmental Research and Education Centre, Myanmar

I am a founder of Environmental Research and Education Centre – iGREEN. My key responsibilities are to support environmental awareness and education to young generations and environmental organizations; to provide public education and community awareness programmes to implement environmental and social research projects on environmental conservation and sustainable development.

iGREEN was founded as a non-government organization in 2010 by like-minded young people who are interested in protecting the environment. Our purpose is to promote environmental awareness and strengthen citizen participation to protect and promote environmental justice and intergenerational rights for future society. Currently iGREEN is implementing research and training projects on environmental protection and sustainable concerns.
